Guerrilla Teaching

I believe that guerrilla teaching methods do work. I taught Antonio Sorci about the Norman Invasion in my kitchen. I was successful in explaining the information to my subject. After telling them about the topic I think the word search was a good way to refresh the memory. I choose a word search because they are fun and simple to do. Adding terms from my topic onto it made it educational.

Yes, I do think that now I understand the topic better because in order to teach someone else, you yourself, need to understand what it is you are teaching. I do understand the Canterbury Tales better.
