

This story takes place in New Hampshire. The main character is an EIGHTEEN YEAR OLD GUY named Hank. Hank is just an average nice kid who in school is very smart and popular. He is about six feet tall with an athletic build. Hank also enjoys to play hockey and lacrosse in his free time. He is just a fun person that many people enjoy being with. Hank who has everything going for him just graduated from his high school and plans to pursue his education at Duke University. Now he comes from a very wealthy family, and besides school has never had to hold down a job or do any hard work or chores. Hank and his family always have lived in a fancy house, gone on vacations, and driven expensive cars. His parents love him very much but spoil him and let him do whatever he wants. Hank doesn't know the feeling of being independent or how hard the outside world really is. Hank has always had friends and his family to help him through any of his problems.